NSC BRIEFING

25 March 1959

in October. Prior to the Soviet-Iraqi deal the UAR attempted to act as a middleman. Moscow, however, expressed its disples	Aru
A. Although the agreement was concluded in Moscow, a preliminary deal was arranged by the Soviet ambassador and Qasim in Baghda in October. Prior to the Soviet-Iraqi deal the UAR attempted to act as a middleman. Moscow, however, expressed its displeasure to Cairo, and UAR was carefully excluded from the Soviet-	USS deal was arranged by the Soviet ambassador and Qasim in Baghda in October. Prior to the Soviet-Iraqi deal the UAR attempted to act as a middleman. Moscow, however, expressed its displea sure to Cairo, and UAR was carefully excluded from the Soviet-		with Iraq in early November 1958.
to act as a middleman. Moscow, however, expressed its displea sure to Cairo, and UAR was carefully excluded from the Soviet-	Α.	Although the agreement was concluded in Moscow, a preliminary
to act as a middleman. Moscow, however, expressed its displea sure to Cairo, and UAR was carefully excluded from the Soviet-		deal was arranged by the Soviet ambassador and Qasim in Baghda
sure to Cairo, and UAR was carefully excluded from the Soviet-		in October. Prior to the Soviet-Iraqi deal the UAR attempted
•		to act as a middleman. Moscow, however, expressed its displea
Iraqi agreement.		sure to Cairo, and UAR was carefully excluded from the Soviet-Iraqi agreement.

Approved For Release 2002/08/12 : CIA-RDP79R00890A001100030027-3

Γ	·	25X1B
		from the state of
		in the second
		77. 1888
II.	Economic
	USSR granted Iraq a 137 million dollar credit under an economic and technical cooperation agreement concluded in Moscow on 16 March 1959.
	A. Credit, long-term and low-interest, to finance Soviet participa-	• tion in about half of some 50 projects in new Iraqi development program.

Approved For Release 2002/08/12: CIA-RDP79R00890A001100030027-3

C. Soviets also to survey for future expansion of irrigation systems

B. USSR to provide technical assistance for constructing industrial enterprises, including heavy engineering, chemical and food and road nets and to prospect for minerals.

processing.